Equity, Diversity and Inclusion

As with many orchestras around the world, we continue our work to ensure the Auckland Philharmonia is an equitable and inclusive workplace. To ensure we're embodying the values and principles of EDI in our workplace culture we are committed to:

- Equitable and transparent pay: pay rates are published in our policies and procedures; every tutti player receives the same pay, every section leader the same as the others, and so forth. This assures that there is no pay discrimination based on gender, race, or other factors.
- Holding open auditions: Every eligible* candidate who comes to audition or sends a recording will be heard.
 - *in some cases auditions will only be open to musicians legally able to work in New Zealand at the time of the audition, due to immigration requirements. The job ad will always make clear whether or not the audition is open to musicians of all nationalities.
- Screened auditions: The first two rounds of our auditions are screened, eliminating as much bias as possible. The final round is unscreened, in an effort to allow our panels to consider the final candidates as whole people – we know that the potential you bring to our team is more than only your performance artistry but also informed by your communication and interpersonal skills, your individual skills, perspectives and backgrounds.
- Recording options: Recorded candidates are heard and assessed with equal weighting to in person candidates. We have a robust audition policy to ensure this, which is reflected by the fact that in the past 4 years, 50% of our auditions have been won by candidates submitting recordings. Allowing recorded auditions means that candidates who may have another professional commitment on the day of our audition, or for whom the travel cost to New Zealand would be prohibitive, are able to participate.
- Fair and transparent probationary periods: the assessment process throughout the probationary year is clearly communicated to the musician. Feedback is always delivered in a formal setting with written minutes, and in the presence of an impartial manager.
- Musician involvement: All musicians have the opportunity to have a voice on committees which shape the organisation, such as players committee, health and safety committee, social committee.
- Community Partnerships: Strong organisational ties and support to Sistema Aotearoa, which provides free music tuition to students at low decile schools in South Auckland, where the students are primarily Pasifika and Māori.
- Supporting Biculturalism: Organisational training in cultural competency has begun in 2024, and we are excited about where this will lead us.
- Showcasing artists from diverse backgrounds: While acknowledging there is much work to be done in our sector, we intentionally programme to ensure we feature artists of traditionally underrepresented demographics on our concert stages.
